Utilities, Inc. - Florida Residential Reclaimed Water Information

At the May 5, 2008, hearing in the above-referenced matter, I provided testimony regarding Utilities, Inc.'s ("UI") experience in the utilization of reclaimed water by some of its wastewater facilities in the State of Florida. During the course of my testimony, Commissioner Mayes requested that additional information be filed in the docket relating to UI's experience in providing reclaimed water to residential developments.

The following is information about UI's Florida utilities that provide reclaimed water to individual residential customers for landscaping irrigation purposes. To my knowledge, Florida has not approved reclaimed water to be used inside residential dwelling units:

- Alafaya Utilities, Inc. ("Alafaya") is a wastewater utility in Seminole County near Orlando. Alafaya has 7,100 wastewater customers, and provides reclaimed water to golf courses, and to 1200 residential customers. Alafaya has been providing residential reuse service since 1998 for landscaping irrigation. UI personnel have advised me that approximately one half of the residential customers that were offered reuse service have agreed to take the service. A copy of the approved Sewer and/or Reuse Application and Users Agreement that each Alafaya reuse customer must sign is attached as Attachment A.
- Sanlando Utilities, Inc. ("Sanlando") is a large, mature water and wastewater utility that is also located in Seminole County. Sanlando has approximately 10,000 water and 8,000 wastewater customers. Sanlando's reuse customers include several golf courses, nurseries, and an adjacent municipal reuse system. Sanlando recently had residential reuse rates approved by the Florida PSC, and is now serving a few new residential developments comprising 120 homes that have been piped for reuse for landscaping irrigation. Most of the service area was built out before the wastewater system was upgraded to provide reuse.

• Lake Utility Services, Inc. ("Lake") is a fast growing water and wastewater utility in Lake County. Lake currently has approximately 9,000 water and 3,000 wastewater customers. Lake recently expanded and upgraded the wastewater treatment plant to enable it to provide high quality reclaimed water service. Several residential neighborhoods in the service area that comprise approximately 1200 homes, have already had reclaimed water lines installed in anticipation of the availability of reclaimed water for landscaping irrigation purposes. Based upon our prior experience, we anticipate that approximately half of those homes will take reclaimed water. A current rate case that contains proposed residential reuse rates is currently pending before the Florida PSC.
